HEATHER HEYER FOUNDATION

Nonprofit Foundation Launch and Thought Leadership Development

The Challenge: After activist Heather Heyer was killed at a counterprotest to a white nationalist rally in Charlottesville, VA, her mother, Susan Bro, vowed to “make her death count” by launching a foundation in her memory. TASC was brought on to launch the Heather Heyer Foundation (HHF) in a period of less than two weeks, manage media and speaking engagements for Bro, and use the media attention to build a movement to support the foundation’s mission.

Our Strategy: TASC publicly launched HHF in three phases: First, we provided programmatic and strategic support to help Bro launch the foundation in 10 days. Second, we negotiated an exclusive announcement of HHF at the MTV Video Music Awards. We purposely chose to reserve Bro’s voice for select, impactful opportunities in this phase, with the understanding that Bro was still grieving the death of her daughter. The third phase was to use Bro as a spokesperson at high-profile events and forge partnerships for HHF in order to garner additional media attention and support.

Results: Our work generated over 300 million media impressions, helped raise hundreds of thousands of dollars for the foundation and established the foundation’s credibility. In addition to the TV exclusive with MTV, The New York Times ran a web and print exclusive, which was picked up by several outlets. Bro’s appearance at the VMAs reached an audience of over 500 million people, spreading HHF’s message across the globe. TASC arranged for Bro to appear on The Ellen DeGeneres Show in her first TV exclusive interview where DeGeneres and Shutterfly made a live, large on-air donation to HHF. The launch of HHF was covered in the AP, People magazine, Billboard, The Hollywood Reporter, BuzzFeed, USA Today, Glamour, CNN, HuffPost, E!, Vanity Fair and hundreds of other outlets. Celebrities and activists including Bernie Sanders, Chelsea Clinton and Miley Cyrus expressed their support for HHF and signed on to help the foundation. Bro is now widely respected as a prominent voice for ending hate and is currently writing a book proposal. HHF is regarded as a leading advocacy organization that will have a lasting impact on social justice.
